Allowable Subject Matter

The reason for allowance in previous office action mailed October 10, 2007 was in error.

This communication is in response to interference decision on priority on April 18, 2007 in the application of Buckley et al. for an "electromechanical safety system for a firearm" filed March 15, 1999.

Claims 25-29 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: The prior art of record fails to disclose or suggest an identification unit configured to detect an identification signal inputted into the identification unit; a control unit connected to the identification unit, the control unit configured to compare the signal inputted into the identification unit with a stored identification code; an actuator device including a geared motor connected to the control unit and connected by a threaded spindle and nut connection with a mechanical locking element which is movable between a locked position and an unlocked position, wherein in the locked position the locking element locks a trigger tongue of the pistol; a battery for supplying electrical power to the locking mechanism; and a plurality of display elements configured to display an operating status of the locking mechanism.
